Art is an artificial construct. It has no meaning or existence beyond which Man gives it. This is why Art is so hard to define or explain. It exists differently for each of us; and as such, each of us must come to our own conclusions regarding its nature.

There is no such thing as good art or bad art. A piece of art is either enjoyable to view and experience, or it is not. A piece of art either speaks to an individual, or it does not. A piece of art either has certain qualities that one is looking for, or it does not. But to insist that one piece of art is intrinsically better than another fails to take into account the needs of different members of the viewing public; and in art, this is everything. This is what makes art, art.

{And now you know.}
