Take it on faith that UFOs do not exist. They never have, and they never will.

Take is also on faith that you can see UFOs nightly, talk with alien beings for hours on end, and hitch a ride across the cosmos on the alien craft of your choosing, for it is certain that extraterrestrials live among us, and that they are anxious to make your acquaintance.

These are not two discontinuous ideas. One does not preclude the other. Starting with the assumption that UFOs are a myth, the UFO Attractors Handbook will show you how to achieve a state of enlightened consciousness where all of your wildest fantasies can and will come true.

To all things, there is a way, and the UFO Attractors Handbook points the way by outlining in meticulous detail the necessary steps required to experience a midnight ride on a flying saucer with the alien host of your choosing -- a ludicrous proposal if ever there was one. And having obtained this obvious impossibility and mastered the methodology presented in the UFO Attractors Handbook, you will then be able to make manifest in reality whatever outlandish dreams you may desire.

For if one can bring the patently absurd to fruition, there is no limit to what one can accomplish. Or as they say in the CIDC: How are you going to keep them down on the farm now that they've seen the babes on Anteries-7?

How indeed?
